Today's News - February 5, 2007

ArcSpace brings us another view of Abu Dhabi cultural projects and Alsop in London. - Meanwhile, Burj Dubai skyscraper is all bones (new skin to arrive shortly). - Fraser resigns from A+DS claiming PPP school designs are "catastrophically poor." – de Botton's development plans are "put on ice." – Stanford University suffers from some "mind-numbingly boring" (unattributed) architecture (but the good guys are named) The challenges in transforming old shopping malls require more than just a face-lift India hosts a national seminar exploring the need to get shopping malls right. – Traffic is a pain in L.A so what's new? – Malaysian architects are making waves overseas. – Two San Francisco projects are "green" on two different scales. – It's a symbiotic relationship between landscape architect and developer that will make Orange County park truly great. – A young architect wants to bring Kaliningrad's castle back (along with a new city center) Critics come to the defense of Libeskind's Denver museum Not all are betting that the Uffizi expansion will begin The New York architect behind some of the city's most polarizing projects. – A master of Google architecture celebrates his 90th. – An interesting take on Moses: officials have learned that arrogance is a sin, so now "their modus operandi is to appear to care about communities and then go ahead with big development plans anyway." – Another take on Lutyens' cathedral that never was.

To subscribe to the free daily newsletter click here

-- Ando, Gehry, Hadid, and Nouvel: Saadiyat Island, Abu Dhabi, UAE -- SMC Alsop: Palestra, London, UK

Burj Dubai skyscraper missing its 'curtain wall' exterior: It's all bones and no skin....a new curtain wall provider...is on board... By Blair Kamin -- Skidmore, Owings & Merrill (SOM)-Chicago Tribune

School PPP scheme a 'catastrophe' for pupils: Malcolm Fraser has resigned from a Scottish Executive advisory panel over concerns that schools built using private finance could be damaging children. -- Architecture and Design Scotland (A+DS)- Sunday Herald (Scotland)

Channel 4 ditches de Botton's development programme: Philosopher's 2ha 50-home development with Feilden Clegg Bradley 'put on ice'...plans to set up a development company are to be scrapped. -- Praxis Development- Building (UK)

Editorial: A Corporate Beacon of Clapboard and Stucco: Granted, not every building...looks as though it were carelessly ordered from a catalog of innocuous buildings. When Stanford decides to take architectural risks, the results are often noteworthy. -- I.M. Pei; Norman Foster; James Polshek- Stanford Daily (California)

Old Shopping Malls Require Much More Than Cosmetic Surgery: ...two projects are emblematic of increasingly frequent real estate investment and design challenges that lie ahead. By Roger K. Lewis- Washington Post

Code for new shoppers' stops: With [Calcutta] firmly in the grip of 'mall-eria'...the need to get the planning, design and management of shopping centres right was never more imperative. -- Centre for Built Environment (CBE); Santosh Ghosh; Unmesh Kirtikar; Partha Ranjan Das- The Telegraph (India)

Rediscovering an Old Problem: Traffic Is a Pain, Just Like it Was in 1982...with revived calls by a perplexed public for an expanded mass transit system, more selective planning. less development... By San Hall Kaplan- LA Downtown News

Local architects making mark overseas: Malaysian architects are making waves overseas with a list of architectural masterpieces dotting various parts of the world. -- Tan Loke Mun/Malaysian Institute of Architects (PAM); Teo A Khing Design Consultants (TAK Group); GDP Architects; Hin Tan Architect- The Star (Malaysia)

S.F. Joins the Green Trend: Two Bay Area projects run gamut from practicality to a grand statement. By John King -- Renzo Piano/Chong Partners; David Baker + Partners- San Francisco Chronicle

The Central Park of Southern California: Ken Smith is stretching out a bit, with a project measuring 1,347 acres...Orange County Great Park will cover a large swath of what had been El Toro Marine Corps Air Station. By Fred A. Bernstein- New York Times

Kaliningrad Wants Its Castle Back: For years Kaliningrad has been allowed to decay as a forgotten Russian enclave surrounded by Europe. But now a movement is afoot to rebuild the city center. The castle too may soon dominate the skyline once again. -- Alexander Bazhin [slide show] - Der Spiegel (Germany)

Pro-Libeskind forces fire back: Some critics were unimpressed with Daniel Libeskind's design for the Denver Art Museum addition when it opened in October, but others recently have come to its defense. By Kyle MacMillan- Denver Post

Uffizi Expansion Is Finally (Well, Maybe) to Begin: ...even with the ground broken, 10 years after the project was first announced, few are betting on it. -- Arata Isozaki [images]- New York Times

High-Rise Architect Sails Proudly in Mainstream: Costas Kondylis is a successful architect who also happens to be the designer of some of New York City's most polarizing projects.- New York Times

It's Googie à go-go: Architect Eldon Davis marks his 90th birthday with a tour of sites he helped put on the map...an architectural style that came to epitomize postwar American optimism...- Los Angeles Times

Moses vs. Jacobs plays again: Three simultaneous museum exhibitions...under the title Robert Moses and the Modern City...seek to re-evaluate and rehabilitate Moses, praising him for his unparalleled achievements. By Simon Houpt- Globe and Mail (Canada)

Lutyens Built New Delhi, Couldn't Get Cathedral Off the Ground: One of the finest architectural models in the world is on view in all its newly restored splendor in a special exhibition entitled "The Cathedral That Never Was"...remains a landmark in architectural history...- Bloomberg News

In Their Own Words: Abu Dhabi Cultural District: How Gehry, Hadid, Nouvel, and Ando envision their cultural venues on Saadiyat Island. [images]- ArchNewsNow

Curtain Up: Billy Wilder Theater at UCLA Hammer Museum: Los Angeles has a new cultural "living room." -- Michael Maltzan Architecture [images]- ArchNewsNow

Note: Pages will open in a new browser window. External news links are not endorsed by ArchNewsNow.com. Free registration may be required on some sites. Some pages may expire after a few days.

Yesterday's News

© 2007 ArchNewsNow.com